Hi Eric,

It is a Dell GX1, but I don't know how to look up its name in Windows 98. There is no computer name tab in My Computer Properties. We use it for email, and It has an HP 8100 series CD burner that we will need to install in the new(er) computer. I will be away on Thursday and Friday this week and Wednesday next week, but Jim and Sharon should be here.

Thanks, Cam

Hi Cam,

Is that PC a Dell GX1 named DPH-WS-Q645? We can, and should, upgrade it, but does anyone use it for email? Is that the PC with Foxpro application? I should be able to come by some time next week. Will let you know.

-Eric

Hi Eric,

We have one computer in the Amherst Lab that is on the DPH network and still runs on Windows 98. I know that the IT department wants all DPH computers to be upgraded to Windows 2000 for the upcoming email system migration to MassMail. I think we will need a newer computer for this upgrade. We just finished upgrading all the computers in our Jamaica Plain lab, and I know that they would like us to get going on this last one in Amherst. Let me know when you are ready, and I'll put in an order request.

Thanks,
Cam
